

Contact

 emma.skalski@univ-rennes.fr

 University of Rennes
CREM - UMR 6211

Language

French Fluent

English B2 (TOEIC)

Spanish B1

Software

- R studio
- Office pack
- Powerpoint
- GAMS
- Excel
- Overleaf

Other qualifications

- First aid certificate (2017)
- Youth work certification (2016)

Interests

- 12 years of musical experience
- 5 years theatre experience

Skills

- Curiosity
- Determination
- Adaptability
- Critical thinking

Emma Skalski

PhD student in agricultural economics (2nd year)

Thesis subject - Input price trends : determinants and issues for global food security in a context of extreme climatic events

Agro-economist engineer

Formation

University of Rennes

- 2023
Phd degree in agricultural economics
 - CREM UMR 6211
- ↔ Teaching assistant (Undergraduate Macroeconomics)

Institut Agro Rennes-Angers

- 2023
-
2020
Master's degree in Agricultural Engineering
 - Specialised in agricultural economics
 - Six-month semester abroad in Newcastle University (UK)

Montpellier University of Science

- 2020
-
2017
Bachelor's degree in Science, Technology and Health
 - Majoring in Life Sciences

Internships

French ministry of Solidarity, Autonomy and the Disabled

- 2023
6 months
Project Manager for "Fighting against food insecurity"
 - General Directorate for Social Cohesion (DGCS)

Newcastle University

- 2022
6 weeks
Internship in behaviour informatics research lab
 - Machine learning for dog behavior

Research experiences

Poster sessions

- 10th IMAC macroeconomics workshop
University of Rennes, CREM - September 26, 2024
- Breizh macro club annual conference
University of Rennes, CREM - October 8, 2024

Member of the EIR-A program

Agreenium International Research School preparing PhD students for scientific careers on an international scale